

SS&C Aloha

Designed for users and how they want to work

Investment operations staff keep wealth and money management firms humming. They handle the sometimes mundane, frequently arduous and always critical tasks that reconcile trades, balance the books, capture performance and ensure compliance (just to name a few areas). It's important to provide tools and technology that help your people work efficiently, advance their skills and gain opportunities to add more value to your firm.

SS&C Aloha was built from the ground up with a sharp eye on the people and the work they do across the investment operations landscape. Our single platform's persona-based insights and automated workflows are tailored to the specific needs of each user and empower them to focus on what is most important, to quickly move from issue identification to resolution. With all asset classes and front, middle and back-office functions on a single system, SS&C Aloha fosters operational collaboration, reduces operational risk, lowers costs and eliminates operational silos.

SS&C Aloha supports everyone working across your investment operations

Optimizes monitors, dashboards, and alerts for each persona and their work

Proactively flags issues and streamlines resolution

For more information, visit ssctech.com

Replaces batch-based processing, manual workarounds and disparate technologies

Enables better-informed decisions for the front (IBOR), middle and back office (ABOR) based on accurate, consistent and always up-to-date information from its single data model

Natively provides secure access from any device, including mobile

Reduces specialized training needs and key-person risk

Empowers users to do more with less

As an advanced, automated and user-focused system, SS&C Aloha does the heavy lifting so staffers gain time for more value-add activities and strategic objectives. Less time spent wrestling with cumbersome technology and manual processes means more productivity. And with more chances for learning, cross-collaboration and self-enablement, investment operations team members are well-positioned to grow their careers and rack up their accomplishments. Reap the benefits that come with a focus on your people; schedule a demo today.